Taste in the gustatory system allows humans to distinguish between safe and harmful food, and to gauge foods' nutritional value. Digestive enzymes in saliva begin to dissolve food into base chemicals that are washed over the papillae and detected as tastes by the taste buds. The tongue is covered with thousands of small bumps called papillae, which are visible to the naked eye.

In invertebrates, at least, taste has a social function. For example, Drosophila males use taste to differentiate between females and males, as well as to recognize mating status and activities of individual females 102, 103. Whether taste plays a social communication role for vertebrates remains to be determined.
