A value network is a business analysis perspective that describes social and technical resources within and between businesses. The nodes in a value network represent people (or roles). The nodes are connected by interactions that represent tangible and intangible deliverables. These deliverables take the form of knowledge or other intangibles and/or financial value.

From what I can gather from some of Adobe's documentation, there is a timestamp which is included as part of the signature. I would guess by saving the document (even without any content changes) would modify this timestamp value, hence invalidating the signature (which would have been created using the original timestamp).

Interest rates. Classical economics posited that interest rates would adjust to equate saving and investment, avoiding a pile-up of inventories (general overproduction). A rise in saving would cause a fall in interest rates, stimulating investment, hence always investment would equal saving.
